The present subjunctive

ANTE TODO

With the exception of commands, all the verb forms you have been using have been in the indicative mood. The indicative is used to state facts and to express actions or states that the speaker considers to be real and definite. In contrast, the subjunctive mood expresses the speaker's attitudes toward events, as well as actions or states the speaker views as uncertain or hypothetical.

- ▶ The present subjunctive is formed very much like usted, ustedes, and negative tú commands. From the yo form of the present indicative, drop the -o ending, and replace it with the subjunctive endings.

- ▶ The present subjunctive endings are:

-ar verbs

-e	-emos
-es	-éis
-e	-en

-er and -ir verbs

-a	-amos
-as	-áis
-a	-an

Present subjunctive of regular verbs

		hablar	comer	escribir
SINGULAR FORMS	yo	hable	coma	escriba
	tú	hables	comas	escribas
	Ud./él/ella	hable	coma	escriba
PLURAL FORMS	nosotros/as	hablemos	comamos	escribamos
	vosotros/as	habléis	comáis	escribáis
	Uds./ellos/ellas	hablen	coman	escriban

AYUDA

Note that, in the present subjunctive, -ar verbs use endings normally associated with present tense -er and -ir verbs. Likewise, -er and -ir verbs in the present subjunctive use endings normally associated with -ar verbs in the present tense. Note also that, in the present subjunctive, the yo form is the same as the Ud./él/ella form.

¡LENGUA VIVA!

You may think that English has no subjunctive, but it does! While once common, it now survives mostly in set expressions such as If I were you... and Be that as it may...

- ▶ Verbs with irregular yo forms show the same irregularity in all forms of the present subjunctive.

- ▶ To maintain the c, g, and z sounds, verbs ending in -car, -gar, and -zar have a spelling change in all forms of the present subjunctive.

entender (e:ie): entienda, entiendas, entienda, entendamos, entendáis, entiendan

It's bad that...
